

Global Learning in Germany and England: Indian perspectives

Hochschulöffentlicher Vortrag

18:00h - 19:30h / Festsaal

Global learning in schools of Germany has started taking a definite shape and there are attempts to design it for all subjects. A novel concept of "global classroom" (Stuttgart) is also on the move. London having a high population of ethnic groups, global learning is incorporated in several schools in all possible subjects. It enhances pupils' skills and awareness to efficiently deal with diversities, global issues and in making minor lifestyle changes.

For Indians, it's a new, emerging and an interesting arena. Tough India is a proud host to several cultures, languages and diversities; possibly never realized the need of such a subject.
